MR. LABOUCHE'S DECISION REVERSED!
TAWA NOT TO BE THE CAPITAL!
Government resist the action of the House

[From the Globe, July 29.]

The proceedings of last night, in the House of Assembly, exceeded in interest those of preceding sittings during the present Parliament. The Ministry have studiously avoided during the whole session giving an opportunity to the Opposition of taking the case of the House upon the policy which has resulted in the choice of OTTAWA as the Seat of Government.

ment. Yesterday, however, they were brought into court, a true verdict was rendered, the Government policy was condemned by a majority of 14! Ottawa was declared to be the Seat of Government for united Canada and all previous proceedings in connection with the Imperial choice were swept away. Mr. John A. Macdonald declared that the insult to Her Majesty, that it was a disgrace to the House which should adopt it; and

Mr. Durion's Resolutions on the question of the removal of the paper, under the impression that the matter had been finally disposed of, when the amendment to go into supply was negatived. Durion, after his proposition had been defeated, had no intention of moving it again, acquiescing in the removal of the notice.

ny Ministerial supporters, however, restrated with him on permitting it to be off; they declared that the Government agreed that the whole subject should be considered, and desired to use his resolu-
in order to accomplish that object. Mr.
rion at once consented to have the notice
on the paper, and when the proper mo-arrived yesterday, he called the attention of the Speaker to the fact that it had been formally struck off, and it was replaced according to his request. Mr. Thibaudeau, member for Portneuf, undertook the duty of moving, having done so in a speech of a few minutes. Mr. Scott, member for Ottawa, objected as being the same motion that had been considered on a previous occasion. The Speaker on the previous occasion by the promise and were indignant at the imposition upon them. Mr. Morin and Mr. Tu spoke angrily to their neighbors on the ornament benches, in reference to the and Mr. Harwood, member for Vaudreuil very indignant at the position in which subject was placed. It was evident th next step would be a vote of want of confidence from the north-west corner, and Mr. Dorion hastened to suggest a remedy. Mr. Dorion's original proposition was divided into two parts. First, he declared that the Queen's government did not satisfy the people of Canada; and second, he declared that Montreal should be the Seat of Government. Mr. Dorion declared that the second declaration was not a

that the whole subject would be dropped but Mr. Dunkin came to the rescue, and then, by associating individual places with proposition to upset the Queen's decision, reader it impossible to obtain a majority. They were not permitted to do so, how Mr. Brown moved in amendment that not expedient to expend any money in erecting permanent buildings at Ottawa,—an Piche moved a second amendment, "that the time be the matter of cable House, now laws, in the opinion of this House, ought to be the permanent Seat of Government of this Province." The last amendment is correct in its wording, as will be seen; there is no beating about the bush at all, and Mr. A. Macdonald and those who supported him made a special point against it, that it costed an insult to her Majesty. The Premier was indignant on the subject, and called the House not to be so disloyal and even as to adopt such a Resolution. He also declared that the Ministry were prepared to obey the Queen's decision, and carry out the orders of Parliament having agreed that the cost should be left to the Crown, and having voted the money for the buildings, the Government would stand by the law as it existed. A debate took place, in which Sir. Dunning was an active participant, speaking too long too often. Mr. Gowan, Mr. Patrick, and other members spoke for Ottawa, and Mr. Robt. made himself a laughing-stock by quoting figures from Sir F. B. Head's pamphlet in favor of Toronto, like a school-boy who does not know his lesson. The House was exceedingly impatient for a division, and there were of "question, question" during the whole evening. At length the talking was finished, the members called in, the yeas and nays taken, and the vote was discovered to be as follows:—

NEW MINISTRY DEPARTED:

We learn by Telegraph that at 12 o'clock on Monday night, on a motion of non-confidence, Mr. Brown's Ministry was defeated by a majority of 40.

Arrival of the Vanderbilt.

New York, August 2nd.
The steamer Vanderbilt arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning, bringing Liverpool dates to the morning of the 21st, and London of the evening of the same day. She brings nearly 300 passengers, and reports very favorable weather for laying the cable. She passed the steamship John off the Star of the morning after sailing.
The Nagara passed Cape Clear on the morning of the 18th, and the Argentine was off Kilsale on the 19th.
The Liverpool Cotton, Broadstairs and Freetown Markets were steady but dull. London Money Market very easy. Consols for money and account 93 1/4.

The weather in England was favorable, and the wheat crops very promising.
There was an interesting debate in the House of Lords on the Jeddah massacre, in the course of which Lord Salisbury said that all necessary steps had been taken to demand immediate redress from Turkey; but there was no intention of occupying Mecca.

The House of Commons discussed at length the motion by Mr. Rosebery, that the privileges of the Hudson Bay Company, about to expire, ought not to be renewed, and that such territory held by them as was needed for purposes of colonization, ought to be assumed without delay by the Government. The motion was finally withdrawn.

An attempt to raise funds for the completion of the steamship Great Eastern had failed, and it is now proposed to raise a new Company for purchasing her.

There has been a sudden change in the programme of Queen Victoria's visit to Berlin. There is to be no visit, no salutes, no demonstrations as usual on such occasions. The cause of this change is not fully known; but there are rumors of ill health of Prince Frederick William.

The Paris Moniteur says the French Government will join the English in demanding reparation for the Jeddah massacre.

St. John, N. F. Aug. 2.
A steamer from Europe passed Cape Race about noon yesterday, and handed to a fisherman four copies of the Liverpool Northern Times, from 20th to 23rd July, inclusive. Her name was not ascertained, and the customary despatch from our agent in Liverpool having failed to come to land, we are unable to say what vessel it was. The probability is, however, that it was the Royal Mail steamer Patria, from Liverpool on Saturday the 24th ult. From the papers to hand the following summary has been made up.

The commercial affairs are necessarily very imperfect; but the political news will be found of the highest interest, comprising, as it does, news of the re-capture of Gwalior by the English, and the taking of a Chinese port, mounting 136 guns, at the mouth of the Peiho.

An official Telegram to foreign offices, on 22nd July, states that the steamer Cornwall arrived at Suva on the 17th inst., and dates from Calcutta to the 19th, Madras 25th, Zulu 29th, Hong Kong to the 7th of June, and Aden to the 11th of July.

The forces under Sir H. Ross had returned Gwalior, after a severe fight of four weeks.

The Forts at the mouth of the Peiho river, mounting 136 guns and backed by a large body of troops, were attacked on the 20th May by English and French gunboats. The loss of the Thetis and the Chien Chinese stood to their guns very fairly. On the 22nd forces commenced advancing up the river. Weather cool, and squadron in good health and spirits.

8,000 French troops, originally destined for Cochin China, are on their way to Peking.

From Canton information was that on the 22nd June an ineffectual attempt was made by the allies to route Chinese Braves on mountains in that vicinity.

Wampoy was in possession of the rebels, and the English merchants had gone on board H.M. ship Surprise.

LIVERPOOL BEANSWORTH MARKET.—Although there had been large arrivals of wheat, holders were firm. On Thursday a moderate business was done, and finest quality realized 70s. 6d. per bushel. Flour and lower descriptions declined from 11s. to 2s. per 70 lbs. Flour was neglected.

Weather rather favorable to crops.—Richardson & Spence report that the wheat is generally unchanged: Western 21s a 22s 6d; Philadelphia and Baltimore 22s a 22s 6d; Ohio 22s a 24s.

House, provided he be elected while holding

House, provided he be elected while holding such office, and not otherwise disqualified." If we went to section six, it declares "that if any member of the Legislative Assembly, or any elected member of the Legislative Council shall by accepting any office, or becoming a party to any contract or agreement, be disqualified under the foregoing provisions to continue to sit or vote, the provisions to continue to sit or vote in the said legislative Assembly or Council, his election shall thereby become void, and the seat of such member shall become vacated, and a writ shall forthwith be issued for a new election, as if he were naturally dead.

The 7th section of this statute, being that under which the present members thought they were justified in holding their seats, is as follows: "Provided always that whenever any person holding the office of Receiver
General, Inspector General, Secretary of the Revenue, &c., shall resign his office of the Province, and, upon resigning his office, and within one month after his resignation accept any other of the said offices, he shall not thereby vacate his seat in the said Assembly or Council." Thus, in the first place, if a member takes an office, he vacates his seat, and has to be re-elected. The reason for this was in order that the Crown should not acquire a control over the members of this House. It was done to prevent the Crown acquiring any control over the members of the House at all, except by consent of the people, and a member

...taking any office was bound to go back to his constituents to get their approval. Thus, being the state of the law, it was often found to be productive of inconvenience when it was desired to make only a mere exchange of offices between ministers who had already been approved of by their constituents when they took office. This was the reason why the 7th section was placed upon the statute book. But this is not ministers' consent.

book. But the present ministers vacated their offices; another ministry succeeded them, who were sworn in, and the present ministers became just like any other members of the House. Until the time the Brown-Dorion Administration had been sworn in, it was in the power of the Crown to allow them to withdraw their resignations, but at the very moment the Brown-Dorion Administration was sworn in, they became ministers on the basis of the House of Commons.

simple members of the House (I heard). The provisions in the law which allowed members of the existing administration to change their own positions, have been tortured into the right on behalf of these gentlemen, to take office without an appeal to the people. Did their case come within the evil which was intended to be remedied by the statute? It certainly not. It was one of the first principles in constructing the language of a statute, that its letter should not be made to override its plain intent, and it was only by the letter, as was admitted by the Attorney General East, that they could at all pretend to hold their seats. The same idea which prompted the Attorney General was that gentleman and his colleagues were in possession of their offices against the law; they dare not appeal to their electors. (Hear, hear.) The policy of the hon. gentleman, if indeed it could be called a policy, was a very miserable one. Was it worth the name of a policy? The word policy could only be applied to it, in the signification strategy; because when it was examined it was not a policy in the sense in which Governments were supposed to have a policy. Setting the statutes on one side, was there no additional reason why ministers should have gone to their constituents? The Government which had come into power to-day, had a new policy, and they ought to have desired the approval of their constituents for that policy. Hon. gentlemen might smile, but if they got the approval of the electors to that, there was nothing too monstrous to receive their approval (Cheers.) If the gentlemen who constitute the majority of the House were determined to over-ride law, no authority which he might quote would prevail. If they were determined per fas et nefas to override the law, then there was an end to a civil Government, and it only required a majority of the House to do all violence to the statutes of the land. Mr. Wallbridge then proceeded to argue, that the statute, which was a remedial one, could only apply to those cases which it was intended to remedy, and that the mere letter of the law could not bring other cases within its bounds; the intention of the statute, not its words, being of the most importance. To prove this he quoted a number of authorities. In Sedgwick on Constitutional law, it is said "that if the act be strictly a remedial one, a clear idea is to be had of the law as it existed before the statute, and of the mischief that it was meant to prevent, for the purpose of ascertaining the remedy which the Legislature intended to give;" and again, in the same work it is stated "that in construing a statute the judges have a right to decide in some cases, even in direct contravention of its language, which has been repeatedly asserted and practised upon by the highest authority." In Duane on the Statutes the same statement is made in still stronger words:—"It is not the words of the law," says the ancient Plowden, "but the internal sense of it that makes the law: the letter of the law is the body; the sense and reason of the law is the soul. Every statute ought to be expounded, not according to the letter, but according to the meaning. The enlarged interpretation of the law will penetrate the soul and spirit of the law, and reach the intent and meaning of the legislator, and no statute can be so construed as to defeat its very object and intention." Notwithstanding livil Government, and it only required a majority of the states to ratify the Constitution. The states to the lead. Mr. Wallbridge then proceeded to argue, that the statute, which was a remedial one, could only apply to those cases, which were not within the scope of the law; and that the mere letter of the law could not bring other cases within its bounds; the intention of the statute, not its words. To prove this he quoted a number of authorities. In Sedgwick on Constitutional law, it is said that if the act be strictly construed, the letter of the law as the law as it existed before the statute, and of the mischief which it was meant to prevent, for the purpose of determining the true intention of the statute intended to give; and again, in the same work it is stated "that in construing a statute the judges have been repeatedly asserted and practised upon by the highest authority, that the true intention of the statute must be ascertained in still stronger words:—" It is not the words of the law," says the ancient Plonid, "but the spirit of the law; the letter of the law is the body; the sense and reason of the law is the soul. Every statute ought to be expounded according to the meaning." The enlarged interpretation of the law will penetrate the soul and spirit of the law, and reach the heart of the law, and no statute can be so construed as to defeat its very object and intention. USEFUL INFORMATION.—The warehouses of Holland and Belgium, so proverbially famous for their cleanliness, are not so fully white, use refined borax as a washing powder instead of soda, in the proportion of one pound to every 100 gallons of boiling water; they save in space and labour, and the borax is a better disinfectant about the same mode. For soap, cambrum, &c., an extra quantity of powder is used, and the water is not so hot, and does not in the slightest degree injure the texture of linen; its effect is to soften the hardest of the dirt, and to loosen the fibres, so as to afford for cleaning the hair, and is an excellent disinfectant.

Atty. Gen. CARTER said he had afterwards contended they came within the intention of the statute.

Baltimore by steamer, stopped a day there, patronizing the Eatwax, and left on the morning of June 28 for Philadelphia, where he was to be married. He was met at the Walnut-street wharf, where E. and his wife sat after dinner on the balcony, enjoying the cooling breeze. Mr. B. landed through the crowd, and was warmly greeted, and returned to New York, having no trace from the 10th to the 16th inst., and no word from the 17th to the 23d, when, where he found next morning the news report, that Mr. Elmalne and wife on the register of the Ocean House, but the bird had again flown. Mr. B. was not at home, and Mr. Elmalne, Mr. B.'s Black's cottage near the beach, where Mr. B. watched the house till 2 p. m., but found no bird. He then ascertained that the bird had been in the city on every night that he (B) left this for Newport. Mr. Bowyer came directly home, and Mr. B. immediately set out all day, called for the first time about the middle of the afternoon, walking in front of the St. Nicholas. He recognized him instantly by the description, and he was taken to the hotel, but could not be arrested during the Sabbath, as the process was a civil one. Bowyer kept the watch, however, and on Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, the door of the loving couple, who were asleep, Deputy Sheriff Crombie was called in, and he saw the man, who, without knocking brought the gentleman to the door, who inquired, "What is wanting?" Mr. Elmalne. The door was suddenly closed, and a little while after Mr. B.'s letter was inserted, and the ominous is more indicative of pulmonary cold feet. Cold feet cannot occur if the circulation is properly maintained. A sense of coldness in the feet is often due to the fact that they are not sufficiently warmed by clothing. Our bodies are often over-dressed with overcoats and wraps, while our limbs are not improved. Now there is nothing more serious than allowing the feet to become damp and cold. Health requires that the feet should always be kept warm and dry. It is better to pay the tailor, and the shoemaker, and the hosiery maker, for preserving your feet than to pay the doctor for curing you when you are ill.

From some of your past experience, and from the fact that two-thirds of our population have suffered from these troubles, it is evident that the feet are the most neglected part of the body.

CAMP MEETING TALK.

A chap down South went to a camp meeting, and gave the following amusing account of the disjuncted conversation he heard there:

Preaching had not begun, and promising was in progress. We took a convenient stand, and tried to get a share of the various couples who were slowly by us. "Yes, indeed," (two girls talking of course) and my brother Tom says that Henry Coker broke about the many times he has kissed her right in the mouth, and by, and I'm sure I should die if I were to talk of me as they do about her."

"We married in six weeks from last Tuesday. I heard him talking about it, but you mustn't mention it for the world. It is a great secret."

"Really not, and she's as new as air. Pure Berkshire, and has nine pigs. It was the grandest kind of a success, and I wouldn't take any other kind of a success. And the fowls and hogs in the bargain. Oh, I go to the picnic on Thursday! Oh, thank you. You don't know how I would love to be present, sir, I am so young of the exhilarating dance, but I can't go."

"I am truly gratified, my dear young friend, to learn that you are so deeply impressed with the necessity of immediate reform. We are very glad to hear of this."

"Ten yards of gimp for the bosom, and narrow velvet binding for the neck and sleeves, Emily."

TALORING.

The Subscriber, grateful for past favors, wishes to inform his friends and the public generally, that he has received from

NEILSON'S STORE BUILDINGS, fronting the Market, where he keeps, by appointment and dispatch, a large share of the various couples who were slowly

by us. "Yes, indeed," (two girls talking of course) and my brother Tom says that Henry Coker broke about the many times he has kissed her right in the mouth, and by, and I'm sure I should die if I were to talk of me as they do about her."

"Corn is up again you know, and I shall make at least six hundred barrels if I make a good crop, and consequently—"

"What a spectacle this is to be shown! How happy Kate Winslow dressed in a new dress, and she is so fresh. Must be a great loss to—"

"Really not, and she's as new as air. Pure Berkshire, and has nine pigs. It was the grandest kind of a success, and I wouldn't take any other kind of a success. And the fowls and hogs in the bargain. Oh, I go to the picnic on Thursday! Oh, thank you. You don't know how I would love to be present, sir, I am so young of the exhilarating dance, but I can't go."

"I am truly gratified, my dear young friend, to learn that you are so deeply impressed with the necessity of immediate reform. We are very glad to hear of this."

"Ten yards of gimp for the bosom, and narrow velvet binding for the neck and sleeves, Emily."

"The latest lady you saw—black eye and large limbs, six weeks old and weighed—"

"None one pounds and a quarter to the pound. None better in the country. Free from garlic and cokerel, and large grained, I hold it at—"

"We married last Saturday. Belvidere, the former Congress man, will speak, as he says—"

"Ah, Mr. Pepper, you flatter me so just now. I shall wear yellow, though it makes her look like—"

"Fever and ager, I believe. They've all got the fever and ager. Some every day. The sweetest I ever saw. Where did you get it? I must recommend my sister to—"

"Some of 'em' half price. I saw 'em' shoot them out of—"

1. SCOTT & CO, New York, continue to publish the following leading British Periodicals, viz—

THE LONDON QUARTERLY (Continuable). THE EDINBURGH REVIEW (Whig). THE NORTH BRITISH REVIEW (Free church).

THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW (Liberal). BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE (Tory). These Periodicals all represent the three great political parties of Great Britain—Whig, Tory, and Radical—but all possess the merits of one feature of their character. As Organs of the most profound writers on Science, Literature, Morality, and Religion, they stand, as they have stood, unrivalled in the world.

They are, however, considered indispensable to the scholar and the professional man, while they furnish a most correct and satisfactory record of the current literature of the day, through the hands of the most able and possibly obtained from any other source.

THE PUBLISHERS WILL BE OBLIGED TO THE PUBLIC BY ADDING ADDITIONAL VALUE TO THE ORIGINALS, INASMUCH AS THEY CAN BE PLACED IN THE HANDS OF SUBSCRIBERS AS SOON AS THE ORIGINALS.
